"Pressestimmen The Boston Globe These are enthralling, fascinating, even mind-altering pages. Alder imbues the narrative with a tremulous, fever-soaked climax and a lengthy and satisfying denouement. The Philadelphia Inquirer One of those rare works that both rewrite history and capture the imagination. The New York Times Book Review Passes a central test of any popular work of history: it bathes the past in the light, life, and humanity of the eternal present. Synopsis The story of the creation of the metric system in 1792 traces the endeavors of Delambre and Mechain, the backlash of superstitious contemporaries, the impact of the French Revolution, and the mistake that drove Mechain to the brink of madness. Reprint. 50,000 first printing. Über den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Ken Alder is a professor of history and Milton H. Wilson Professor of the Humanities at Northwestern University. He is the author of The Measure of All Things, published to worldwide acclaim in fourteen languages. He lives in Evanston, Illinois."
